Accused

Guilty Feelings

*'Guilt was rising like a fizzy drink inside her. But then she felt angry.
They shouldn't have left the cake there.
It wasn't her fault!'*

In the story 'Accused', Emily invents her own little stories to avoid being blamed for eating the slice of chocolate cake. As time passes, the lie seems to become bigger and bigger until she is caught out and has to own up to what she did.

Have you ever told a lie and you were caught out? _____

If so, how did you feel when your lie was discovered?

How do you feel if someone lies to you?

Do you think that lying is the best way to get out of something that you have done wrong? _____

Why do you think this?

Design a poster that displays the motto:
Honesty is the Best Policy!
